PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release
April 19, 2016

Nevada's Metro Area Rates Rose Slightly in March, but down Over the Year

CARSON CITY, NV—In March, the unemployment rates in the state's metropolitan statistical areas (MSAs) increased relative to February, but decreased over the year. The rate in Las Vegas rose to 6 percent, and is down 1.2 percentage points from last year. The rate in Reno/Sparks rose to 5.5 percent, while the Carson City MSA rate is up 0.1 percentage point relative to last month, to 6.8 percent and declined 1.4 percentage points over-the-year.

As previously reported, the statewide unemployment rate for March fell to 5.8 percent. The unemployment rate remains below 9 percent in all of Nevada's counties," said Bill Anderson, chief economist for Nevada's Department of Employment, Training and Rehabilitation. Statewide, employment increased by a seasonally adjusted 6,500 in March, relative to February. The Las Vegas area experienced a seasonally adjusted increase of 3,400 jobs in March. In Reno/Sparks, jobs increased by 2,300, leading to a seasonally adjusted increase of 2,100 jobs. Carson City saw an increase of 400 jobs.

"Despite the minor upticks in the unemployment rate in the metro areas, the Silver State's economy is still faring well," Anderson said. "All economic indicators show positive signs despite monthly volatility in the metro area rates. It's important to note that all of the major sectors statewide are adding jobs. "
