Director Woodbeck asked for public comment at this juncture of the meeting. Hearing no public response, Director Woodbeck moved to the next agenda item.

VII. *Discussion/Possible Action – Recommendation of a New Chair/Vice Chair.....Frank Woodbeck

The Director explained that Chair Stacey Crowley had to step down and her membership on this council will be replaced by her Deputy, but this calls for an appointment of a new Chair. He noted that DETR provides all of the support staff for the sector councils; however, it is the council Chair that guides the council’s activity and sets the agenda for the meetings. The duties and responsibilities of the Chair were explained as outlined in the State of Nevada Governor’s Workforce Investment Board Industry Sector Council Bylaws. Director Woodbeck then invited recommendations and/or nominations for Chair of this council and encouraged individuals to volunteer if interested.

VIII. *Discussion/Possible Action – Update on Interaction with Governor’s Office of Economic Development, Overview of DETR Sector Council Activities.....Frank Woodbeck

Director Woodbeck presented an update on the interaction between the Governor’s Office of Economic Development (GOED) and the industry sector councils. He noted a study undertaken by the Brookings Institute and SRI International in the spring 2011 for the state of Nevada that identified seven key sectors to economically diversify the state. These seven identified sectors are currently being targeted for economic development and the Governor’s Office of Economic Development either has, or is currently in the process of obtaining, industry specialists for. The Director directed the discussion at this point toward explaining the required components of membership for each sector council as set out in the Governor’s Workforce Investment Board (GWIB) Industry Sector Council Bylaws.

Director Woodbeck explained that the membership components of the private and public sector on each industry council will draw together, interact and engage in dialogue to develop a cohesive message regarding workforce training and skills. The sector councils will be a conduit of information to the Governor’s Workforce Investment Board (GWIB), as the sector councils are the brain trusts for their particular industry sector and will provide guidance and influence how workforce training is developed in the state, how money in the state would be allocated to training, and help shape what the employment pipeline would look like going forward in this state.

Director Woodbeck pointed out that one of the questions a business or corporation asks when looking at the state of Nevada besides what incentives are available to them, is whether there is a trained labor force available for their industry. Providing a trained workforce is key to the economic development of Nevada. While much of the training is provided by the businesses themselves as proprietary training, the initial and foundational training is what the sector councils will help influence and determine. There is a request currently to consolidate the current two regionalized workforce investment boards into one statewide board, but the current areas and the allocations for workforce investment training funding will remain the same as they are currently constituted. Either way, regardless whether the one board plan is accepted or not, the sector councils will influence the development and training of their industry sector.

IX. Discussion – Update on Approved Sector Council BylawsEarl McDowell
Deputy Administrator, Workforce Solutions Unit, DETR

Earl McDowell, Deputy Administrator of DETR’s Workforce Solutions Unit, reported that the Attorney General and GWIB approved the Sector Council Bylaws. The bylaws govern the mission and duties of the sector councils, as well as the attendance requirements of the council members. A copy of the approved Sector Council Bylaws was included in the handouts for the Sector Council meeting.

The bylaws are available at: Sector Council By-Laws - with Changes Accepted - April 19 2012.doc

X. Discussion – Clean Energy Sector DataBill Anderson
Chief Economist, DETR

The item was tabled for a future Clean Energy Council meeting. Director Woodbeck noted that the Department of Research and Analysis is available to provide information and statistics as needed regarding employment and wages, as well as other types of data, for the sector councils to make the most informed choices as they consider workforce development and training. He encouraged the council to make data queries of the Department of Research and Analysis as may be needed.

XI. Update on State Energy Sector Partnerships.....Jaime Cruz
Green Economy Workforce Development, *workforceConnections

Jaime Cruz of workforceConnections gave an update on State Energy Sector Partnerships (SESP) and the Clean Energy Partnership Grant. Based on the number of people already or currently under contract for training services, he was highly optimistic that Nevada will actually exceed number of people serviced than was originally anticipated. Of those individuals already serviced in Northern Nevada, all are still employed and/or have increased their employment capabilities due to the training they received. Also in that region funds were under spent on staff and operations. Those funds will be added to the program to provide training to additional participants.

The State will be coordinating a request for an extension to spend additional SESP funds, which he said is not an unusual request for a state to make at this time. He noted that other states besides Nevada have made the same request. The advantage of an extension would be the additional people served. Mr. Cruz emphasized youth as an important area in need of training. Relationships are being strengthened with Clark County School District and individual high schools in order to provide training. He reported on the activity of currently participating schools, the rate which they are joining the program and the number of participating students.

XII. Discussion – Silver State Works Presentation..... Carol Dell, Workforce Representative IV
Nevada Job Connect, Maryland Parkway Office, DETR

Carol Dell, a Business Service Representative for JobConnect, introduced herself and gave a presentation on the Silver State Works program. She explained that the program has three components that employers can choose from and outlined the reasons there is a need for such a program, the targeted populations, the eligibility requirements for both individuals and businesses, as well as pay structure and length of the program. Ms. Dell also explained how JobConnect prescreens applicants to provide employers with the best referrals. There was also a discussion of the program’s success rate as of May 1, 2012. It was also noted that JobConnect can provide employers with hiring events and information for job openings are posted through numerous sources, such as the news, radio, online and through email.

XV. *Discussion/Possible Action – Future Agenda and/or Recommendations.....Frank Woodbeck

Eric Dominguez suggested the council develop a specific strategic plan in order to ensure the council’s goals are fulfilled. He also wants to provide periodic updates of the Association of Energy Engineers initiatives regarding energy management and efficiency. Tom Piechota asked to consider water technology in the field of renewable energy, how it applies to workforce development, and the possible need for such curriculum in clean energy training. Terrence Surles wishes to examine targeted industries within the clean energy sector to possibly narrow this council's focus onto the current gaps in the industry right now and where technology is headed. Several members also discussed the need to look at current grants and workforce investment funding that are in place and consider what else may be needed, as well as where additional funds can be applied for. Dan Gouker proposed the council look at the importance of apprenticeship programs for non-managerial clean energy positions.

The next scheduled meeting will be in August 2012, specific date to be determined.
